Be moved by Cape Town's colourful past when you visit historic landmarks such as the Malay Quarter.

Cape Castle or Castle of Good Hope: Built by the Dutch after their arrival in 1666, the Castle was erected as a 5 pointed star on the foreshore of Cape Town. It is surrounded today by a variety of other monuments and places of historical interest. The Castle of Good Hope is the oldest surviving building in South Africa. Built between 1666 and 1679, this pentagonal fortification replaced a small clay and timber fort built by Commander Jan van Riebeeck in 1652 upon establishing a maritime replenishment station at the Cape of Good Hope for the Dutch East India Company, better known as the VOC (Verenigde Oos-Indische Compagnie). The Cape of Good Hope houses the regional headquarters of the South African Army in the Western Cape, the famous William Fehr Collection of historic artworks, the Castle Military Museum and ceremonial facilities for traditional Cape Regiments.

Table Mountain (weather permitting): Since the first person laid eyes on Table Mountain, it has exerted its powerful and charismatic pull, enchanting and drawing any and all who fall under its spell. The best views of Cape Town are seen from the top of Table Mountain. The Cableway summit is under 10 minutes and the cable car's rotating floor ensures that all passengers have an aerial view of the city. Table Mountain is a sandstone plateau rising up above the Cape Flats. The top is approximately 3km wide, and at its highest point, Maclear's Beacon, rises to 1085m. Over the centuries it has become one of South Africa's most famous landmarks. The steep cliffs and rocky outcrops of the mountain play home to a number of plants and animals. The mountain is home to approximately 1470 species of plants; more than the entire British Isles! Complimenting this vast array of flora is a stunning range of fauna, some, like the Table Mountain Ghost Frog, being found in no other place in the world.

Overlooking Noordhoek and Hout Bay, this rocky coastal roadway offers numerous points at which motorists can safely pull over and savor a panoramic view across the deep-blue waters of the Atlantic Ocean and the shapely shoreline that meets it. Victoria Falls - no doubt one of the major highlights - can be experienced at ground level or through "The Flight of Angels", which aptly refers to the Helicopter Flights over and around Victoria Falls. It is a great name - it describes this activity perfectly as it is surely one of the finest experiences you can have. At ground level, you can feel the enormous power of Victoria Falls as tremendous volumes of water pound into the chasm below, but it is only when you take to the air that you can take in the whole panorama and enormity of this mighty spectacle.

■ Insika Lodge Insika (IN-SEE-KA) is an isi-Ndebele word meaning "Pillar of Strength". It speaks of the wonder of the Victoria Falls which shoots up a pillar of cloud that can be seen from as far as 32 miles at certain times of the year.

The main lodge area provides a variety of living spaces from which to appreciate the astounding natural beauty of the area.
